When Stash & Stella's desired to open a new location in the Walden Galleria mall, they turned to TRM to perform a complete interior fit out of an existing facility to suit their requirements for a 1950s-style diner.

This particular diner was designed in the stainless steel style. This included a steel frame with porcelain enamel metal accents running horizontally above and below the windows. Its exterior structure also featured rounded corners and large windows of fixed plate glass, typical of this particular diner genre.

To create a nostalgic 1950s décor, TRM incorporated polished metal, brightly colored booths and stools, and the familiar black and white tile floor. Also included were period art, fabrics, hardware, and accessories such as a jukebox and vintage toys and figures. Lighting and wall color were also important considerations in creating the diner ambiance.

The entire facility was redone from the previous establishment to both create the desired atmosphere and facilitate pedestrian traffic through the dining area as well as in the kitchen. The final product was a complete redesign of an existing area to accurately reflect the desired retro feel.
